Continuation of 4(e) Other: It appears that applicants may have some single letter deletions using strike through, which are not readily visible, such as probably in the second line of claim to "a" may have been deleted. In general it is preferable that for any deletions of 5 or less characters to use the double bracket, [[]], mode of deletion, in order to avoid such problems. Note other he deletions in the claims which fall in this category & should preferably be changed. In reviewing the amendment to the specification, appropriate double brackets appear to have been used therein.
